Seeing God's Vision in the Community In Pimlico/Belmont

"Since 2020, many families have been impacted by the pandemic and the economic crisis. Several resources low to no-income families relied on either temporarily or permanently shut down. North Porch adapted its processes and procedures to safely assist as many of these families as we could. Almost three years later and our centers open, we are still adapting to handle changes that continue to impact the communities where we serve."

– Cynthia Moricz de Tecso, Executive Director, North Porch,

Extending Virtual Worship In Aqueduct/Churchill

Many of our parishes turned to online worship in response to the pandemic and still provide such worship to complement their live worship. Senior Ministries is hosting a workshop to discuss ways in which we can use our virtual worship to reach out not only to our fellow parishioners who cannot get to church, but also to people beyond our congregations who are seeking worship. Our discussion is open to everyone who wants to explore how we can extend our virtual worship services into our communities. Bring your questions and ideas.,

The Spirituality of the Hero's Journey

In Conference F&G,

“Joseph Campbell's template for the hero’s journey is more than the blueprint for a good movie script. It is a blueprint for the call we share to live the gospel life and bring the Kingdom here on earth.

After COVID, we all remain in a kind of flat land. The crisis of recent events has thrown us out of our ordinary world. There is so much to do yet there is a kind of paralysis. Campbell tells us The Hero’s Journey always begins with the call. 'Look, you’re in Sleepy Land. Wake. Come on a trip It is a way to begin anew as we seek God's Vision together. Where are you on your hero’s journey? Join as we explore and discuss the call to a new journey.”

2023 Challenges and Opportunities for Ministry with Young People In Monmouth

“Many of us believe we know what young people need when it comes to faith formation, but do we know what young people want? The landscape of church has shifted. The Church, congregations, and the diocese, need to be intentional as we look to the future of ministry for young people. What can we learn from each other? How can we partner effectively? What resources do we need? What resources do we already have? Join us for this round table discussion as we discern how to best accompany young people on their faith formation.”
